Keynote Speaker: Mr. Rishabh Johri, Sales Manager, Manupatra

On November 6, 2024, the Literary and Research Club organized a highly informative and engaging Workshop-Cum-Training Session on " Mastering Manupatra for effective research" hosted by Ms. Ankita Bhardwaj, Secretary, L&RC. A sapling was presented by Dr. Harish Kumar Verma, Dean, ICFAI Law School to the keynote speaker, Mr. Rishabh Johri, Sales Manager, Manupatra as a token of gratitude.

The session aimed at familiarising participants with the use of Manupatra, one of the most widely used legal research tools in India, and to equip them with the skills needed to leverage its features for more efficient legal research. The workshop included students from first year to final year along with the faculties who were keen to enhance their legal research skills.

The key learnings from the session were basic and detailed introduction of the features of Manupatra. Other allied trainings programs offered by Manupatra. It was majorly focused on the practical application of Manupatra. Participants received step-by-step guidance on performing advanced searches for case laws and statutes, filtering results by jurisdiction, date, and relevance, tracking legal developments through recent judgments and news articles, and effectively using case citations and legal references in their research. After the demonstration, the session transitioned into an interactive discussion, where participants raised questions which were proficiently resolve by the speaker. The discussion provided valuable insights into practical challenges and best practices for conducting thorough legal research.

The session was concluded with a vote of thanks given by Ms. Ankita Bhardwaj followed by a group photograph.
