- Why Choose ICFAI Law School, Jaipur?

In India, the field of Law is always upheld and justice is given the utmost priority. This is also why it is one of the most popular and highly recognized academic fields. If you have an affinity to help people seek justice and be a part of the judiciary system, you can choose from a variety of available law courses. Pursuing a Law degree not only helps you become a lawyer but also opens a number of career avenues for you to explore. It equips you with skills and knowledge that can be applied across various other job roles as well.

Traditionally one of the ways of establishing a legal career was to seek an LLB degree or other core legal degrees. But leading universities like ICFAI Law School, Jaipur are providing integrated degree courses to students. Through these courses students will be trained not only in the legal discipline but will also receive training in other fields including Arts, Management, etc. Being Honors degrees, they offer additional subjects to aspirants along with a greater research scope, additional skills development, and better placement opportunities. So, all in all, graduates of these Integrated Honors programs have a higher demand with bright career opportunities before them.

What is LLB?

Bachelor of Laws or LLB is a 3-year full-time undergraduate program that is concerned with the study of legislative law. In most Indian universities, the LLB program independently covers 4 different types of laws in 6 semesters. The course is diligently designed to introduce students to the world of corporate, legislative, business, and other different procedures of law.

Generally, this degree familiarizes students with various aspects of the law such as civil procedures, human rights, and other subjects that provide a deeper insight into the Indian legislative system. Having an LLB degree allows a professional to get enrolled as a legal fraternity member and practice law anywhere in India. This degree grants students an exposure to the top law firms of India along with other private sector organizations that are constantly looking for skilled lawyers.

What are Integrated Law Courses?

In simple terms, an integrated law course consists of dual conventional degrees offered as a single degree course where one course deals with every aspect of law and the other might vary from the domain of arts as well as science streams. An integrated law course is crafted in such a way that it enables you to seek knowledge and expertise in the field of law along with training in the domains of arts or management.

For an integrated law course, both the courses are combined with keeping all the latest trends in mind and the curriculum is designed likewise, hence it has got the name 'Integrated course'. For example, B.A LL.B covers various subjects from the niche of humanities like sociology, economics, history, and more alongside the core subjects of law such as company and environmental law and a lot more.

Why are Integrated Law Courses Important?

Being an integrated law course, the 5-year program comprises of various subjects that are related to the graduation programs such as BA, BBA, B.Com, etc. as well as the core law subjects such as consumer protection act, constitutional law, the law of evidence, human rights, international law, and trade laws. These subjects are given equal emphasis and are distributed equally over 10 semesters

Here are the top 6 reasons why an integrated law course is highly important

1

As this integrated course can be studied right after completing the 12th standard, an aspiring candidate does not have to complete the graduation degree beforehand. This is an amazing advantage for all those students who have a defined as well as clear career vision.

2

An integrated law course is a dual-degree program that will help you gain additional industry skills than a single degree program.

3

The career opportunities are much more lucrative for students who have opted to pursue the integrated law courses.

4

The aspiring students can save 1 academic year by undertaking this course as a degree/study option. Students can utilize the time saved for pursuing some other degree or program of their choice. They can also utilize this time to upskill their knowledge.

5

The number of law subjects that a student studies in this 5-year course is more than a 3-year course; in simple words, this means that the student will gain a better and thorough understanding as well as knowledge of all the subjects being taught.

6

As a student, you will have the option to focus on practical training as well including moot courts, legal aid clinics, internships, and client counseling.
